Mobile Technology Use Among Shoppers Rises as Retail Habits Change, Synchrony Financial Study Finds

Retailers can differentiate themselves with integrated mobile strategies

Synchrony Financial
July 20, 2015 8:00 AM

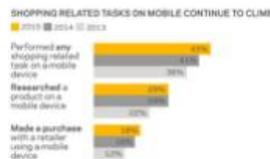

STAMFORD, Conn.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--

Synchrony Financial (NYSE:SYF), a premier consumer financial services company with 80 years of retail heritage, today released findings from its 2015 Digital Study that further confirm the importance of a comprehensive mobile strategy for retailers to effectively engage shoppers and enhance the customer experience.

- Almost 50% of survey respondents are now shopping using a mobile device.
- Almost one-third are purchasing a product after seeing it on social media.
- Approximately one-third of survey respondents indicate that text offers would drive an incremental shopping visit.
- Value propositions, including free shipping, loyalty programs and personalized offers, continue to be important.

Results show that the use of mobile technology by shoppers continues to climb, with adoption growing among key segments of the population – 45% of all respondents said they used a mobile device to perform a shopping-related task (researching, sharing, purchasing and reviewing) in 2015, up four percent from 2014, and nine percent from 2013.

As mobile usage increases among all shoppers and across all devices, retail habits are changing. Mobile device usage for purchases is steadily increasing – 18% of respondents now report using a mobile device to make a purchase, up from 16% in 2014, and 12% in 2013.

Social media continues to be an important channel for retailers to drive sales and engage with customers. With 85% of consumers accessing social media and 45% following brands via social media channels, social media is important to driving engagement. Thirty percent of all age groups report purchasing a product after seeing it on social media and the numbers are higher for younger shoppers – 52% of Millennials and 42% of Gen Xers.

“It’s clear from our research that shoppers across every segment are becoming more mobile-enabled and savvy, using all digital resources available to them to shop and purchase in and out of the store,” said Toni White, chief marketing officer, Synchrony Financial. “Retailers who focus on creating an integrated customer experience across all channels can differentiate themselves.”

Tips for retailers to engage digital customers start with satisfying the needs of omni-channel shoppers for a simple and easy experience and a website that is optimized regardless of the device a customer is using. In addition to responsive design, factors influencing shopper interest and loyalty include: enhanced wish lists; drag & drop clipboards; and custom alerts, signaling a sale or availability of their favorite item. These steps can provide immediate and personalized offers that reward shoppers for their loyalty.
